

COSTS NOTHING UNLESS CURED.

A Fair Offer Made by Noyes Drug Store to All Suffering From Catarrh.

Noyes Drug Store is selling Hyomei on a plan that has caused considerable talk among their customers.

The plan is different from that followed by other remedies, but the remedy itself is different also. This treatment for the cure of catarrh has such an unusual record of cures to its credit that they offer to refund the money if it does not give the desired benefit. This is certainly one of the fairest offers that can be made, and anyone who has catarrh and does not take advantage of it is doing himself or herself an injustice.

Do not suffer any longer with tickling, smarting, burning, eye-watering troubles that afflict those who have catarrh. Hyomei will cure you, but if you should not find it adapted to your case, Noyes Drug Store will return your money.

CURE FOR HAY FEVER.

Hyomei is a positive cure for the sneezing, watering of the eyes, excessive running at the nose, and intense burning of hay fever. It soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane and gives quick and lasting relief.

Ponderosa.

They called him Ponderosa
And he looked it in his face,
He used to loaf around all day,
He liked a woman, knittin' lace.
When he didn't care to knit,
Out there on the veranda
A rocking chair or hammock
He didn't care much which.
He wasn't a crocheter,
Or he couldn't take a stitch.
He didn't care for football,
Nor baseball, not a bit,
He never went around
Druther set an' knit.
At golf he never hustled,
He didn't play croquet,
Nor billiards, pool, nor polo,
He wanted to crochete,
And that's like him now,
He said it made him sweat.
The other summer boards,
They overtook the place,
Out rowin', drivin', dinkin',
While he was knittin' lace.
He said he was too busy,
And the weather was too warm
For a tramping down the landscape
And a swimmin' in the farm.
He admitted he was lazy,
And gave his chair a hitch,
Said he never liked exertion,
And then took another stitch.
But one day he surprised us,
'Twas when the Jersey bull
Burst tearin' out the pasture
When the lower field was full
Of them pretty city boards.
Like children out ter play,
That mornin' I'd been movin',
And they was makin' hay,
I'd broke the blamed old mower
And come with it to town
In hopes to get it mended.
Afore the sun went down,
And Jeff, the Jersey, missed me,
I'd admit it, he was cross.
So he rose to the occasion,
And reckoned he'd 'play boss'
With them pretty city boards.
'That was farmin' jest ter fun,
So he charged the fence and took it,
Then he had out on the run,
And them dudes that was so handy
With their fishin'-rod and gun,
We said it was amazin'!
To see the stunts they done,
A puttin' space behind 'em,
Cleared the fence without a hitch,
'Twas then that Ponderosa
Looked up and dropped a stitch.
Jeff's song'd begun ter rumble,
But not so very loud,
'Twas just like distant thunder
Or a heavy rollin' cloud.
Then Ponderosa started
With a grin, determined face,
And never seemed to notice
Jest where he dropped his lace.
For little Dolly Morris
Had fallen out a stitch,
And couldn't go no further,
It tickled Jeff ter death—
She had fainted like a daisy,
(Of course she wasn't ter blame),
Jeff thought she acted funny,
But he charged her just the same;
With a low and joyful rumble
He lowered his head an' came,
'Bout then he took a tumble,
Ponderosa joined the game.
We said it looked real hardtune,
The way he mucked on
Ter Jeff, and throwed the Jersey,
'N twisted out an' horn,
'N kicked him in the brisles,
'N drove him to the barn,
And blinged him in the linter,
In his proper place, by darn,
When Miss Dolly got 'er senses,
'They'd throwed water in 'er face,
She saw Ponderosa settin',
In his hammock, knittin' lace.

Why They Read
The Advertiser.

Old Home Week suggested.

Henry Tucker of Logansport, Ind., says:—Having had this paper in my old home at Norway, and since making a home for my family it has been a regular visitor, so you may well imagine that such a caller for more than fifty years should have made a place for it. It is like a letter from home, and though there are more names that I do not know each year, still there are enough familiar names, or of the old families, that make it of weekly interest.

The old faces of forty years ago are passing away. Among those of the past I have Jeff, Gallison and Captain Amos Noyes that seem near to me. Very few of the boys who went out with the 14th Regiment are left, so far as I know. By referring to my Diary of 1862, I was just getting back from New Orleans (reaching Norway the same day as this with like), my reason for discharging me was that it was cheaper to send me home than to bury me in New Orleans. But when I left New Orleans most of the boys thought my funeral expenses would be very light, for nothing but a soldier's blanket to wrap me in for the watery grave of the great Atlantic.

As to improving your paper, I think you are now making it the best it has ever been, especially of more interest to the readers who have moved away from Norway.

Help to make the beautiful Lake Pennesseewassee and surroundings of the village better known.

Norway village I have always claimed to be the prettiest and most homelike of all the villages I have ever seen.

There are no villages in the West. All are towns till they get to the city, and some of the cities would be but an ordinary village in this size.

Encourage those who can do so to take the city people, who are looking for a nice place to spend two months of the hot season, to their homes. This will help the farmer, as well as the village, build up the meeting of all who can do so, on some regular day each year, of those who have moved away from town. Make an organization for that purpose and I believe it will be taken up with interest.

I think this inquiry you are sending out will be answered by many, and show you that we feel a vital interest in the welfare of the old home village and town. And if you can get them to report to you occasionally, it will add interest to the old subscribers, at least.

A Heap of Truth and Well Told.

My DEAR SANBORN:—I am in receipt of your query asking why I take the ADVERTISER. Well, I take it because it is published in Norway, Oxford County, Maine.

Because I like to read the editorials. Because the Editor is a personal friend of mine. I might as well take the paper as to "chip in" every now and then for his support.

Because I like to read that my old friend, Col. Sampson, went fishing with a two ounce rod and at the first cast pulled in a bass that measured three feet four and one-half inches from tip to tip, a moose, a caribou, three foxes and an ichthyosaurus. These stories tell me that there are yet abroad in the land some of the true descendants of the gentleman who wrote the story of Jonah and the whale.

Because I like to read that little Johnny and Freddy and other kids that I used to fire out of the station when I was boss of the Transportation Department in Norway, have got married and set up establishments of their own. Also that some of my old chums are answering to the name of "Grandpa."

This succession of events teaches me that I am getting old and must not get too gay with the idea that I am yet a spring chicken.

Because I like to read the gossip of the good old town. I read the lives and then I read between the lines and I know the nice things my old neighbors are saying about each other. It is very soothing.

Finally I take the ADVERTISER because, having paid in advance (during a spell of mental aberration) there are several copies yet my due.

I thank you for the compliment implied in your request for suggestions as to improving the paper. It would be a discourtesy for me to say anything except that the paper is right as it is.

I notice in your paper frequent allusions to the fact that many subscribers are paying their subscription in cordwood. I beg to suggest that you carry "on the slate" the names of such patrons as have no cordwood until such times as they get farms and then—take the wood lot.

This would be a great boon to those who are now sending in the current coin of the realm.

Trusting that from this brief statement of reasons you will be able to catch on to the fact that my motives—if I have any—in taking the ADVERTISER are pure and have in them no hope of gain or personal glory. I am very truly yours,

C. D. WATERS.

P. S. Seriously, I do not think you have an out of town patron who reads the paper any more carefully and completely than I do. Through its columns I keep in touch with my old friends and with the town, within whose limits I passed many pleasant years. The ADVERTISER tells me the story of the "ups and downs" of the prettiest village in Maine, as well as of the joys and sorrows of my old and esteemed neighbors. I trust that it will yet have many years of prosperity.

If Wealthy, Would Live in Norway.

Troop F, 7th Cavalry, Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park, Ga., July 23, '04.

I can easily tell why I like to have the Norway ADVERTISER.

In the first place, I passed the happiest days of my life in the town of Norway. I went there as a stranger, with the exception of my aunt, Mrs. Magdalen Fayer who is now gone to a better world (than this) was received by some of Norway's best people, in fact I was not long in your town before it seemed as if I had always lived there, everyone treated me kindly and with respect.

How well I remember my first meeting with the Rev. C. Angell. I think she is one of the finest of women. She seemed to read one clear through. I used to attend her church and Sunday school. I should judge the people of her church are not much less great.

Miss Angell is not the only one whom I hold dear to memory—there are a lot more in Norway.

But now in regard to your paper, The Norway ADVERTISER, if you only knew how I enjoy it, why, it's like a long letter from a very dear friend, and often I will see where some Norway boy has made a success in the world, and a case like that always pleases me, for I have made very poor success; also I often see where improvement is made in the town, on its roads, buildings, etc.

I could not suggest any improvement, but I can assure you that I and have persons, down in Chickamauga Park certainly appreciate the Norway ADVERTISER. One of those persons is myself, the other is a Maine boy from Auburn. His name is Harry Robinson, and I believe he knows a few Norway boys.

In regard to the town of Norway, I think it is one of the most beautifully situated towns I was ever in, and I have been in a good many, and often when talking with my friends or even some short acquaintance, I will describe to the best of my ability, and to the best of my knowledge, the beautiful scenery and its business relations with other cities.

If I were a rich man I would spend the rest of my days in Norway.

I trust you will excuse all mistakes and my poor way of expressing myself, but I can assure you that I could, and that I all a horse can do.

I was discharged a year ago last February, so you see I have almost two years more to do. The way things look I guess I will die a soldier, but I may, God willing, see dear old Norway again before I die. I expect to go to the Philippines next January, the 7th cavalry is next on the list to go. We are to go to Manassas, Va., the middle of next month, and I trust to meet some of the Norway boys. Do you know if they are going there?

Say, do you ever see Harry Lane? I never see anything about him in the paper.

Reads it over Several Times.

It is quite plain to me why I take your valuable paper. It is for the news in Oxford County. It is like a letter from home, it is like a letter from many friends, everywhere. It tells of their arrival from California to Maine, wherever they may be. This paper locates friends even at my neighborhood here in Massachusetts.

I take it for the news from the first page to the last, and I am not satisfied to read it once, but two or three times to see if I have skipped any news of importance.

Your paper is all right now, for anything that I can see. Thanking you for your kind letter, I remain,

Yours Very Truly,
D. EDWIN BENNETT.

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me.

"Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy.

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—Mrs. B. A. HEBRON IS, MECHANIC FALLS 2.

Hebron and Mechanic Falls played a rather one-sided and uninteresting game at Mechanic Falls, Saturday. The features of the game were the hard battling of the Hebron team, batting Marshall almost at will, and the catching of McCarthy for Mechanic Falls. Sturtevant of Hebron made a fine double play, gathering in a line drive with one hand and shooting it to first for a fast double.

The Hebron team is playing fast ball, batting and fielding well. They have a hard schedule for August, and we watch the results with interest.

Exterminate the Potato Bug.

North Chatham, July 30, 1904.
It seems to be the common thing now to ask your neighbors if they have Paris greened their potatoes. In a day's travel you will see men and boys in the fields, with a new fangled sprayer, others with a common sprayer, some with a sprayer used to spray crows and a few way behind the times with an old pan and a piece of shingle taking the bugs alive and licking the tops of the potatoes to broom stuff while now and then sifter will come over the bushes.

Now everyone of these people are anxious to exterminate the bugs yet they take the hardest way to do it because they never gain an inch. I will tell what I think. If all the farmers would stop raising beetles we could get rid of the bugs. How many of you have seen beetles in the fall when you are digging potatoes on the ones that get out, yet nine out of ten will get right along and pay no attention to them and they are allowed to dig into the ground and the next spring they will come out and lay their eggs and by the time hoeing is done you have to get out your arms and equipments and declare war on the potato bug.

If everyone would keep down the bugs the best they could through the summer and then in the fall cut in Paris green water and drop them around on the piece of ground where they have dug potatoes they would kill the beetles.

Don't claim that it could be done all in one year but in a few years potato bugs would be a thing of the past.

It is of no use for "us" to do it, all must do it, even those that raise no more than a garden for their neighbor leaves his beetles will fly to my piece and deposit eggs and my labor is lost.

If the Legislature would take hold of this as it has of some other things and oblige those who are negligent and help those who are trying to do right, we could finish up Paris greened potatoes for good and all inside of five years.

I would like to hear from others through the ADVERTISER more to talk sense than WILL SANBORN.

Items for Publication.
The ADVERTISER is always glad to receive news items for publication, but such items should be sent the week they occur, and not the week afterwards. Subscribers sending such items should remember to sign their names as a guarantee of good faith. No name will be used, but no attention is paid to letters that are not signed. Correspondents should remember that their copy must be received by Tuesday at the latest. Correspondence that is received after that Wednesday noon runs an excellent chance of being crowded out.

The mosquitoes are reported to be unusually numerous and hungry about the fishing resorts in Maine. Indeed, fishing for brook trout in the more secluded places is almost out of the question at times, when there is no breeze stirring to drive away the mosquitoes.

For many years the August Number of Somner's Magazine has been the Fiction Number of the year, short stories with illustration in color and in black and white. The issue this year is a remarkable one. It contains short stories by Rudyard Kipling, Edith Wharton, Thomas Nelson Page, Josephine Daskam Bacon, and others; serials by Robert Grant, Verne Lloyd, and poems by Henry van Dyke, John Finley, and E. S. Martin.

A contemporary speaks up for the wearers of the cow hide boots. He represents the common idea that the farmer is "easy" and goes on to wager that in proportion to their numbers there are more clerks than there are farmers, who are inclined to agree with "Farmer Eaton" for a general. Using the farmer's "smart Allick" thinks that his knowledge countenance will protect him from the snares of the snare.

EDWARD WELLS.
Edward Wells, for many years a resident of Gorham, N. H., died at his home Sunday, July 31st. He had apparently been in his usual health up to the Saturday previous, when he was out of doors. He was the son of Jonas Wells of Waterville, and was born in Waterville January 31, 1845. He went to Gorham with his parents in 1846. He attended the public school till about 16 years of age, when he entered the employ of the Grand Trunk. He continued with the company for many years, when he went to work for C. S. BUCKFIELD.

Served in Three Wars.

R. F. Buck of Wellesley, Mass., is visiting relatives in town. Mr. Buck was born in North Buckfield 24 years ago. He is a son of King R. and Isabella (Farar) Buck, who were also natives of Buckfield.

His parents on leaving Buckfield went to Poland for a time, from there to Wellesley Farms, Mass., in 1886. Attending school until 17 years of age, at this time, on the breaking out of the Cuban war, he enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps at Boston. Having enlisted for five years, after the close of the Cuban war he was sent to the Philippines, from there to China at the time of the insurrection there, returning again to the Philippines to serve out the term of enlistment.

He was one of the survivors of Major Waller's expedition of 50 men who got lost in the mountains, where 10 perished, and yet by his appearance and movements we should judge that he might be good for several campaigns yet. Whether or not Mr. Buck has seen sufficient of the "strenuous" in his five years of adventure, we did not learn in our short interview, but he would be far safer to bank on than many a raw recruit.

BROWNFIELD.

Lawn Party.

The ladies of the Universalist circle gave a lawn party on the Library grounds, Wednesday evening of this week, which was very largely attended. The band furnished music through the evening. The proceeds were about twenty dollars. The booths which were very prettily decorated were in charge of the following ladies:—Ice cream and fancy sherbets, Mrs. Jennie S. Boynton and Mrs. Valerie S. Grafton; lemonade and punch, Mrs. Mary Boynton and Mrs. Ella A. Harmon; candies, Mrs. Eva Bennett and Mrs. Luella Johnson. The lady who told marvellous fortunes for 5 cents remains unknown. It was altogether the most successful affair given by the circle this season.

Still a few scattering cases of mumps.

Charlie Swan, jr., who works in Boston, is home for a short vacation.

Edith H. Macomb of Providence, R. I., is boarding at the Spring Farm.

INFUSORIAL EARTH DEPOSIT.

North Waterford and Albany Pond to be Drained. Earth to be shipped and Prospectors' Fortunes Made.

For many years past, people have known more or less about the "Chalk Pond" in Albany. It has been examined and specimens carried away, but somehow nothing has ever come of it. This pond is situated about 2 miles from North Waterford, on the road leading to Albany Basins. The water in it is shallow—from a few inches to 3 to 5 feet. The deposit extends over nearly the whole of it, and like the water is from a few inches in depth to some feet. The pond is possibly $\frac{1}{2}$ of a mile wide and $\frac{1}{4}$ of a mile long, and is located on high land, and the water can be easily drained from it.

This pond and land surrounding it has recently been sold to Dr. J. F. Huntington of Watertown, N. Y. The pond was owned by John F. Lord, Parker P. Dresser and E. E. French of Albany. The amount of money paid is not stated. The deeds were made out last week.

Dr. Huntington has made arrangements to drain the water from the pond, and C. L. Potter of Waterford with a crew of men are to commence the cutting of a drainage channel—some 2,000 feet—at once.

If the deposit proves to be what is expected, many tons of it will be shipped via of Norway over the Grand Trunk to all parts of the world.

Its scarcity makes it valuable and it commands a good price in the commercial world. For just what purpose we are unable to state, and can only give what the dictionary says:—

INFUSORIAL EARTH.—A very fine, earthy material consisting chiefly of the minute silicious skeletons of diatoms—useful as a polishing powder and as an absorbent of nitro glycerine.

It was through the efforts of C. L. Potter, the mineralogist and mica hunter that Dr. Huntington became interested in this deposit. The doctor was here last week and was enthusiastic over it. Work will commence at once.

HARRISON.

Jordan's store is being newly shingled by Wentworth brothers.

Mrs. Jessie Warren is making extensive repairs upon her house.

Rev. F. Fuglesy, who is spending the summer here preached at the church on Sunday morning.

An ideal concert company gave an entertainment at the F. B. church, Wednesday evening of last week to a fair audience.

Oxford's Winners Again.

Defeat West Paris by the score 3 to 0.

The usual combination of good playing at critical points, and taking prompt advantage of their opponent's errors, added another to Oxford's series of victories Saturday afternoon. Both Adams and Shaw were in excellent form, and hits were few and scattering. Not an earned run was gained by either side. In the third inning while Bowker and Rowe were trying to catch Boyd between third and home, after the ball was passed two or three times, the former threw wild and Boyd scored.

The second run in the same inning was by Wilson, while Oxford's third run was in the sixth, and was made by Pike. There was an audience of five hundred or more, a goodly number being rooters for both teams, and every good play was the signal for a vigorous and prolonged demonstration.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Open time on plover and sandpeeps last Monday.

Myron Paragard was at home from Poland Springs over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Homer and son and Mrs. Bert Andrews and sons spent last Saturday at Poland Springs.

Mrs. Clarence Pike and little son of Livermore are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Pike on Pike's Hill.

Mrs. Towns of Jamaica Plains, Mass., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Horace Pike of Paris street. She will spend the remainder of the summer here.

Lena Swan visited here a few days recently. She came to join her sister Vina who has been the guest of Izah Pike for the past few weeks and accompany her to her home in Montreal.

Chas. F. Partridge of Rochester, N. Y., one of the owners of the Empire Last Works of that city, spent a few days the first of this week with his father, Charles Partridge, of Norway Lake.

Hon. Chas. G. Blake and wife of Philadelphia are visiting friends and relatives here. They arrived Saturday afternoon. Mr. Blake has charge of the Blackwater Lumber Company's Philadelphia office. He has recently bought him a nice residence in the western part of the city.

Alexander Black of Brooklyn, N. Y., the art director of the Sunday edition of the N. Y. World, who with his wife is spending a vacation at Watford, visited here last Friday, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Seitz, of that city, who were visiting here. They made a trip with special steamer around the lake and looked at the shore lots and woodlands owned by Mr. Seitz, in the forenoon. The afternoon was passed at "The Farm" in a more or less fruitless endeavor to catch trout that wouldn't bite.

A party of sixty went on the Robekah picnic to Pinehurst, Friday evening, about even numbers by boat and by team. A picnic supper was enjoyed after which the young folks and the older ones, who felt and seemed younger than the youngest, played games and passed the time most pleasantly. There were several real merry makers in the party and an average of four laughs to the minute was maintained. When the time for return had come all too soon, the moon was shining gloriously, the water was like a mirror and quiet beauty reigned upon the lake.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear, there is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedial treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running ear, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Mechanic Falls Advent camping will commence Thursday evening, Aug. 11th, to continue ten days. The public are cordially invited to go and worship in the beautiful and health giving grove. Half fares on railroads and a stop at the grounds.

You can get work at the Norway Corn Factory during the packing season. See Ad. Huskers and inside help wanted.

A Letter from Oxford.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NORWAY ADVERTISER:—At the ball game between the Oxford and Radcliffe teams, July 23d, I heard several people assert that Oxford had as many hits as the Radcliffe. For the benefit of those uninformed people, I should like you to publish the following:

Pike, the captain and manager of the Oxford team, was born in the town of Oxford, received his education there, and has always lived in town. He was catcher last season, but received an injury early the present season, and was changed to 1st base.

Adams, the pitcher, hails from the Southland, and is working his way through Kittrell College. He first came to Oxford a year ago last spring, and with three of his college friends, was employed at the Oxford Spring House. He had been there two or three months before it was learned that he could play ball, then, as the team was short a base one game, he was put to work on a base. Later it came out he could pitch, and after one trial, the team concluded his place was in the box. This season Mr. Adams came to Oxford the latter part of March and has regular employment in the woolen mill. Each year he has spent more than the three months necessary to give him the right to vote in town.

Beacon, the catcher, is hired. He played several games with the team last season when it was impossible for Adams to play. This year he was hired to take the place of Davis, who was considered physically unfit to play, although he has been used as a substitute. He played 1st base until Pike was injured, when he was placed behind the bat. His record in the diamond is too well known to need re-telling. He was hired solely to play ball and we do not pretend that he is employed in town.

Second base has been played by three men. Estes played several games. He has lived here from childhood. On the removal of Estes, Charles Flood, Hebron '04, was played. Flood is a native of Oxford and fitted for Hebron in the town schools here. Flood was removed and the present incumbent, Wilson, put in. Mr. Wilson came here two or three months ago to work in a saw mill; he played ball with the Welchville locals. Several weeks ago he left the saw mill and got employment in the woolen mill. After changing work he joined the team.

Stone, 3d base, is a native of Oxford and received his education here. He occupied the box until Adams joined the team and is an able pitcher. Lanigan, the loquacious short stop, hails from any old place but has lived in Oxford a large part of the time and works in the woolen mill. He has a voting residence here.

Coulton, left field, has lived here since a boy, is a voter in town and is employed in the woolen mill.

Bowie, center field, has also lived here since a boy, was educated in town and is employed in the woolen mill.

Fuller, the elephantine right fielder, was born in Oxford, graduated from the local high school and afterward graduated from Hebron. He is employed on a farm and as a stone mason.

With the Radcliffe team we are not so well acquainted of course but we think the following fairly correct.

Sparks, pitcher, a student at Hebron, played on the Academy nine and also on the Hebron Locals. I understand his home is in Bath.

Lang, catcher, a Norway man said was a student at Bowdoin college and also from Bath.

Bouney, 1st base, lives in South Paris and plays on the South Paris team when there is one.

Pike, 2d base, a resident of Norway. Cole, 3d base, a student in Paris high school and pitcher on the high school team.

Lowell, shortstop, supposed to live in Norway and work in the shoe factory, though his frequent reference to a cow mislead some into thinking him a farmer. Heavy batter.

Center field, Shaw, from Paris Hill. Right field, Wheeler, lives in South Paris when home, was a student at Hebron, class '04, and played on Academy nine, a good player.

The Radcliffe team has three from its home town, Norway, three from South Paris, one from Paris Hill and two from Bath.

It is possible that I have made mistakes in the residences of the Radcliffe players as this information was collected from Norway and Paris people and not from personal research. OXONIAN.

Note. Sparks is employed in the Norway shoe factory.

Mothers lose their dread for "that terrible second summer" when they have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Nature's specific for summer complaints of every sort.

Some Camp-Fire Don'ts.

Fire every summer plays havoc in our mountain forests, due in most cases, to neglected camp-fires. By the exercise of reasonable care, much of this annual waste of timber could be prevented.

The question of forestry is one of the most important now before the country. Many States pay bounties for planting trees, and the general government is beginning to give the matter of forestry the deep attention it deserves. A fire started from the camp of some careless hunter will do more damage in a day or two than a whole State can repair in years of time, labor and expense.

Commissioner W. A. Richards of the General Land Office has issued circulars warning the public against carelessness, inasmuch as many fires start from neglected camp-fires and makes the following requests:

1. Do not build a larger fire than you need.

2. Do not build your fires in dense masses of pine leaves, duff, and other combustible material where the fire is sure to spread.

3. Do not build your fire against large logs, especially rotten logs, where it requires much more work and time to put the fire out than you are willing to expend and where you are rarely quite certain that the fire is really and completely extinguished.

4. In windy weather and in dangerous places, dig a fire hole and clear off a place to secure your fire. You will save wood and trouble.

5. Every camp fire should be completely put out before leaving the camp.

6. Do not build fires to clear off land, and for other similar purposes, without informing the nearest ranger or the supervisor, so that he may assist you.

Fryeburg's Anniversary.

A Quaint Fraternal Reunion of her Sons and Daughters Who are Three Score and Ten.

Fryeburg's illustrious and widely known son, A. P. Lewis, has issued invitations for the above intimated function, couched in language so pretty and apt that we give it entire:

1834. "Old friend, though many a year hath flown, And we have somewhat wiser grown, Since you and I first met, The love that in our bosoms grew, When life was rosy, fresh and new, Is blooming brightly yet."

MY DEAR FRIEND:—This is to apprise you not of "The Transit of Apollo," but of the transit of your friend Lewis across the Palmist's line of "three score and ten." It seems incredible, and yet in my early home there is an old family Bible that says I made my entire upon the stage in 1834, June 23d. At this late day I don't like to seem skeptical, and begin to doubt that old Bible record. The years that transfer one from youth and early manhood to old age have stolen along so quietly, so peacefully, and, I may say, so pleasantly, that the time that to ordinary mortals brings old age is at my door, and I am all unconscious of the fact. 'Tis true that I have been playing at old age for the presence of an appreciable intimation of its presence, and my ears are my buoyant health, the wide berth I have given physicians, and my freedom from corroding care and anxiety, due to the fact that I have never been burdened with houses, lands and worldly goods, have brought me to "Nirvana" before my arrival at the Great Divide.

I am as yet conscious of but few of the infirmities that accompany old age. True, there is a bouquet of apple blossoms on my chin, and on my head a few silvery hairs scattered among those of the original color, but my eyes still behold with delight in the pretty pictures of which the world is so full, and my ears are not deaf or dull to the "concord of sweet sounds" that come from the human voice or that are breathed in the voice of Nature's varied symphony. I sleep well at night, my digestion is good, and I am as fresh and intact, I walk without crutch or cane, and I am quite a young old gentleman.

On the evening of August 9th, come and see me and my townspeople of Fryeburg, who were born in '34—and if we don't show you the gayest, liveliest and most joyous set of 70-year-old boys and girls you will never see, you will see the best the town affords. A most cordial invitation is given you to be present at the anniversary and celebration of our 70th birthday.

There will be a program of songs, recitations, odes, poems, letters and greetings with many a quaint and breezy address from guests from near and far. Judge Enoch Knight of Los Angeles, Prof. Ebenezer Knowlton and Cora Colbroth of San Francisco, Judge A. H. Walker of Bridgton, Gen. E. C. Farrington, Prof. L. C. Bateman, Geo. and Charlotte Thomas, and with his fiddle, the Old Bard, John W. Tuttle, our last survivor of the Hutchinson family which delighted the world with their songs for nearly 50 years, are to be present. Artemus Ward, born in our neighboring town, was a '34 boy, and, though not expected to be present in person, we trust that in spirit he will be with us, and with all his accustomed merriment and bonhomie, help us to "intoxicate the shunning bowl."

Hardware for the Farm

Mr Farmer, did you ever see the big 4 barn door rolls? If you want to see something that will make you smile every time you open the big barn door, just try a set.

They cost.....$1.00 per set
The track.....70c per foot
The track is very heavy, warranted to hold the heaviest door.

Now is a very good time to cut your bushes. Bush Scythies, Bush Hooks, Bramble Scythies, Snaths for all. Cut your bushes and get more hay.

Now, also would be a good time to pick up those stones that bothered you when you were mowing. The Stone Pickers I have will make the job very easy. Pick up the rocks and save the machine.

Do not forget that RED ENGINE OIL comes in filler cans. You can fill your oiler, without dirt or bother. Snowflake Axle Grease, Paraffine Oil, by the gallon or barrel.

Noyes Drug Store Guarantee Mi-o-na.

Cures Dyspepsia Even More Quickly Now Than at Other Seasons.

The point of least resistance is the proper place of attack.—This holds good either in West Point tactics, or in the treatment of disease.

The summer is the best season in the whole year for the treatment and cure of stomach troubles. The outdoor life, the common use of fruits and vegetables and the lessened strain upon the digestive organs all help the cure.

Just take a Mi-o-na tablet after each meal and complete the cure. This remedy mingles with the food you eat and aids digestion, it soothes and heals every inflammation that may be present in the lining of the stomach, gives tone and strength to the digestive organs, builds up the nervous system, and soon restores complete health.

Noyes Drug Store have so much confidence in the curative powers of Mi-o-na that they guarantee to refund its cost in case it does not effect a cure. Two weeks' treatment costs but 50c. Use it regularly for a month and if you are not more than satisfied with the results, take back the two empty boxes to Noyes Drug Store and they will refund your money without question. A guarantee like this shows the confidence they have in the remedy.

Now is the time to get well by using Mi-o-na.

Pennesseewassee.

You may look toward the east, Then gaze toward the west; It's so lovely one knows not Which view is the best.

There are hills all around us, That seem up so high, As we sit and look toward them, They just touch the sky.

The lake is so beautiful With its border of green, Of pine and spruce and fir, With white birches between.

One cannot describe it,— Its shades are so true, With the sky up above it, Shading gray into blue.

Every hour it is changing, Every glance almost new, Sometimes smooth, then wavy, White caps on it, too.

There are islands so pretty, As you look up one way, With their border of olive And their stonework of gray.

With a dear little cottage Nestled into the green, The dearest little home-book "Most ever you've seen."

I wish I were an artist, But what artist could make On paper the true shades Of Pennesseewassee lake?

O'er yonder, White mountains loom up to our view, With shadings between us, So beautifully true.

And the beauties of evening! Moonbeams of pure gold, Spreading out on the waters Can never be told.

Dear Pennesseewassee, I wish others could be By thy dear changing waters, And thy loveliness see.

The Real Truth About Eggs.

Plain Statement of Facts by a Summer Boarder.

I have often thought a person with the necessary integrity of character and sense of solemnity might deliver a moving and valuable lecture on eggs. At first the subject seems commonplace and it would be hard to get an audience, for nobody thinks that anybody else knows anything about it. I can imagine that if I threatened to lecture on eggs there would be people who would scornfully advise me to drop them. But I refuse to be advised.

When I was traveling in the West, the waitress in the hotel used to look at me severely and mutter, "How'll you have your eggs, turned over or straight up?" I always took them straight. There are a great many ways of taking eggs. Some people take them to heart. This is a mistake. A person who takes eggs too seriously will certainly get thin. It doesn't pay to get thin-shelled—I mean thin-skinned. Be a philosopher, like the hen. The wisdom of the hen is proverbial. When the price of eggs is high she lays very few, realizing that purchases will be ultimately small. When the price is low the hen will always be found deterring to the law of supply and demand in a greatly increased output. Nothing could be more beautiful than this balance. I have seen hens when the price rose to the prohibitive point to stop laying altogether. And I have known other hens when they heard that the price had fallen to ten cents a dozen to snatter their constitutions in an effort to meet the popular call.

Personally I have never seen many hens but I have seen a good many eggs, old eggs and young eggs. I have seen fried eggs after the absent minded waiter had dropped them on the dining-room floor. It is curious how well a fried egg will look after it has been carefully dusted. In fact fried eggs are an invaluable invention.

I have asked for poached eggs when the waiter has whispered, "We have very good fried eggs." The fact that I understood was a wonderful bond between us. Some folks are not so honest as this waiter. I have known hotel keepers in certain places who were about ready to claim that in certain seasons they lay fried eggs. (Circumstances have made me suspicious, but I am so fond of eggs that I have cultivated an astonishingly acute instinct in taking a hint.

I sat in the village store here at Waterford this morning and learned enough in twenty minutes to write a Hen's Lament (aside to Hen Laying, or at least, an essay on How to Tell a Young Egg.

There are a great many city people hereabouts in the summer season and I know they will value a few suggestions based on the knowledge I have acquired.

First, let me describe the best method of securing a young egg. Spot your hen—any hen, but do not let her become confused in your mind with other hens. Study this hen. Watch her work. If you see a far away look coming into her eyes draw discreetly nearer. What the novelists call the psychological moment may be close at hand. Suddenly she will give you a look, it will be as if she said, "I have an idea." Then you give her a look as if to say, "Out with it!" The moment she places the matter before you, you pounce on the egg and gently but firmly bear it away to some place where you can get a candle. You hold the flame of the candle between your eyes and the egg and if there is absolute silence you have a young egg.

On the other hand, if you meet an egg anywhere and are in doubt, the method is quite different. Taking the doubtful unauthenticated egg between the thumb and middle finger of the left hand, and a lighted candle about one and a half inches below the under side of the shell. If at the expiration of eight seconds there is a rustling sound, as of feathers, you have an old egg. In this case your interest properly is no longer gastronomic. It becomes ornithological. There is a market for old eggs. They are used for railway station ornaments and for sofa pillows. But the candle men are prejudiced against them.

In a case of eggs sent from Waterford this summer thirteen were condemned as having passed the age limit, and it was pointed out to me as significant that thirteen is precisely the number of eggs people put under a hen. I have suggested cutting the number to twelve or enlarging it to fourteen.

Even a city man knows that hens are superstitious. I can confidentially believe that thirteen has something to do with those fried eggs I have spoken of. Why handicap a sensitive, superstitious hen? Can't you imagine the self respecting hen starting in with a determination to live down tradition to set the thing out, then losing heart, backing out, rising to her right reputation of an honest exporter. I am for the hen every time. Out down the quorum, I say, let her go into executive session with an honest, even number.

The hen is mightier than the sword. A. B.

The Birds.

When we came to this place some five years ago but few birds were seen about the premises though the adjacent groves afforded ample quarters and hiding places. But their numbers soon began to increase, especially the robins of which there are a large number. They build their nests and rear their young in the adjacent forest, the stable or work shop as suits their fancy. They appear in early springtime and feast upon the insects and ample worms with which the plowed lands are infested.

This spring our well became useless from a foul stench and tasted. On removing the pump and bailing the water out, the quarts of snappers and their kindred were found at the bottom. These were cleaned out and the stones rinsed with clean water. Now the well is all right and the water apparently pure.

But soon as the garden was plowed the worms were devoured soon as they appeared. We wish to keep a live trout or two in the well, to keep it clear of all worms and of other insects.

The birds are now very numerous and no one, not even the cat, is allowed to molest them. True they pick some of our berries to feed themselves and their young ones with, and why shouldn't they? No one objects and they become very tame. One old cock robin red-breast when my wife goes out to pick berries or work in the garden sputters and scolds as though she had no right there.

A peep of day their sweet songs commence, apparently from myriads of throats, as my wife says, praising God in their innocent way. Their force is now strong enough to defend their calvary and woe to the hawk or other carnivorous bird that ventures to approach their habitations. And in the language of the renowned Peter Parley we would say:

Don't kill the birds, the pretty birds, That play about your door.

BROWN'S INSTANT RELIEF

Timely Recipes.

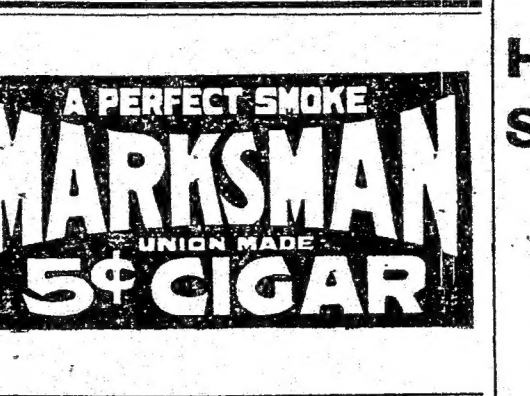

To Can String Beans.—Prepare, as for the table, boil until nicely done, then add one pint of salt to every ten pints of beans, and cook till thoroughly done. Then pour into cans, covering well with the brine, and seal tightly. To cook beans canned in this way, drain the brine from a can, pour into a stew pan and cover with water, boil for five or ten minutes, then pour off the water, and season with butter, pepper, a little sugar, and cream if desired.

Green Tomato Pickles.—One peck of green tomatoes sliced, one and one half ounces of black pepper, one ounce of whole allspice, one quarter pound of ground mustard, one dozen sliced onions one ounce whole cloves, and one ounce of mustard seed. Put a layer of tomatoes, then a layer of onions, then sprinkle on salt, and so on. Let stand overnight. In the morning drain, put into a porcelain kettle with the spices, and enough good vinegar to cover. Simmer for fifteen minutes, put away in stone or glass jars.

Mustard Pickles.—Two quarts of cucumbers, two of green tomatoes, two of onions, two of cabbage or cauliflower. Soak in brine over night, cook each separately until tender. For the paste, take one gallon of vinegar, one cup of flour, one pound mustard, one and one-half pounds sugar. Stir the paste till it boils, then pour over the vegetables. This pickle will keep a year. Turmeric powder can be used if it is not yellow enough.

UNDERFOOT

is the most trying place for a paint or varnish. For this purpose we make the best paints made. You cannot do better than try PORTLAND FLOOR PAINTS. Made in grey, yellow, red, slate, and dust color. We also make PORTLAND DECK PAINTS in light and dark yellow and lead for use in exposed places like decks and piazzas. They are the result of years of experience and are entirely satisfactory. They will dry over night and give a perfect floor surface. Write us for sample card and mention your dealer's name.
